

There are different types of connections depending upon the wiring that is associated with your sport.

The wiring schematic (meaning which conductor affects which component) is industry standard and as an example, failure to use IMSA wired jacks in IMSA applications or failure to use NASCAR wired connections in NASCAR applications will prevent communication capability.

Keep in mind when shopping for your components that just because a jack "looks" like what you need, it may not pair up with your components if you order the wrong one. Use this guide to assist you and if you have further questions, please call us!
